The Mass Readings for October 4, 2026 (the Twenty-Seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time) call us to examine how we tend the gifts God has given us.

The Vineyard and the Tenants

In both the first reading (Isaiah 5:1-7) and the Gospel (Matthew 21:33-43), God is depicted as a loving landowner who builds, protects, and nurtures a vineyard, expecting it to yield the good fruits of justice and love. Instead of cooperation, the tenants turn greedy and reject the owner's servants and son. This story reminds us that our lives and the earth are a shared gift, not private property to exploit.

Guarding Our Hearts

Saint Paul (Philippians 4:6-9) offers the antidote to the anxiety and brokenness of our world: bring everything to God through prayer and thanksgiving, and focus our minds on whatever is true, pure, and just.

Main Reasons to Attend CCE :

Sacramental Preparation: Classes teach children what they need to know before receiving sacraments like Reconciliation (Confession), Holy Communion, and Confirmation.

Religious Education: Students learn prayers, Bible stories, and church teachings. This is very helpful for Catholic children who go to public schools instead of Catholic schools.

Spiritual Growth: Regular classes help children build a personal relationship with God and grow a lifelong foundation in their faith.

Community: Children meet other kids from their local church

Reflection for Sunday October 4, 2026

The readings for October 4 challenge us to examine what kind of fruit we yield in the "vineyard" God has so lovingly entrusted to us. In Isaiah and Matthew alike, God is not a distant supervisor; He is a passionate gardener who fences, clears, and plants with great care.

Yet the tragedy of the wicked tenants—and our own human failing—is the illusion of ownership. When we act as absolute owners rather than humble caretakers of our lives, our gifts, and our faith, we grow defensive, greedy, and spiritually sterile.

Saint Paul offers the antidote in Philippians: instead of clutching tightly to control and sinking into anxiety, we turn our worries into prayer and anchor our minds in goodness. To bear good grapes instead of sour ones means surrendering our pride, recognizing our place as co-workers in God's creation, and allowing His peace to govern our actions.
