Between Moses and Elias Jesus shows forth His divine glory, thus foreshadowing His resurrection. He is the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end of all things. Today's Mass places before us the transfigured Lord and the model toward Whom we must tend, and our own transfiguration as the goal we must attain. We attain this goal by a profound realization of our sinfulness and need of a Redeemer; by preserving purity of body and soul; by combatting our passions and carnal instincts and observing the commandments and most importantly by participating in the Mass.

Let the Scriptures Speak

2st week of Lent

look beyond

In the Gospel today, Luke tells us that Jesus took Peter, James, and John up a high mountain by themselves. It is interesting that the other evangelists do not specifically say why Jesus took them up the mountain. Did they want to go hiking that day? Bird watching perhaps? The context, however, gives us a hint — mountains in the Bible are locations where people encounter God. Mountains are places of prayer — think of Moses receiving the Ten Commandments on Mt. Sinai, and Elijah recognizing God's presence in the soft whisper in a cave on the mountain. Jesus takes his disciples to the mountain to pray. In his Gospel, Luke is explicit and gets directly to the point, saying that Jesus brought his disciples to the mountain in order to pray and the Transfiguration happened "while Jesus was praying."

And so, the Transfiguration is a kind of preview — it shows us the results of Jesus' painful departure to Jerusalem. Jesus' path passes through Golgotha, the place of execution, but it does not stop there.

There are a few weeks of Lent left. Let us persevere in prayer and penance with an eye on the divine glory which awaits us. And so, we echo the prayer of Bach: "Lord, show us, through your passion, that you, the true son of God, have become transfigured."
